DETAILED ACTION

1. A request for continued examination (RCE) under 37 CFR 1.114, including the fee set forth in 37 CFR 1.17(e), was filed in this application after final rejection. Since this application is eligible for continued examination under 37 CFR 1.114, and the fee set forth in 37 CFR 1.17(e) has been timely paid, the finality of the previous Office action has been withdrawn pursuant to 37 CFR 1.114. The amendment and remarks, and the substitute specification, filed 3/18/03, have been entered. Applicant's submission of an unexecuted declaration under 37 CFR 1.132 is acknowledged.

2. Claims 30-36 have been canceled.
Claims 37-39 have been added.
Claims 1, 5-6, 9-15, 28-29, and 37-39 are being acted upon.

3. In view of Applicant's amendment, filed 3/18/03, the previous rejections under the first paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112 for lack of adequate written description have been withdrawn.

4. The following is a quotation of the first paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall contain a written description of the invention, and of the manner and process of making and using it, in such full, clear, concise, and exact terms as to enable any person skilled in the art to which it pertains, or with which it is most nearly connected, to make and use the same and shall set forth the best mode contemplated by the inventor of carrying out his invention.

5. Claims 1, 5-6, 9-15, 28-29, and newly added claims 37-39 stand/are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, first paragraph, because the specification, while being enabling for, the in vitro induction of non-responsiveness of MHC-matched clonal T cells to a defined antigen when dexamethasone-treated dendritic cells have been loaded with the same defined antigen, does not reasonably provide enablement for,

in vivo or in vitro induction of non-responsiveness of polyclonal T cells to any undefined antigen or the in vivo induction of non-responsiveness when an "unwanted T-cell response" is ongoing, for the reasons of record as set forth in Papers No. 6 and 13, mailed 6/29/01 and 9/19/02, respectively.

Applicant's arguments, filed 3/18/03, have been fully considered but they are not persuasive. Applicant argues that, "The description in the response filed October 29, 2001, does not involve an undescribed mechanism, but rather is discussed throughout the Specification."

Applicant is advised that by a mechanism "previously undescribed" it was meant that it appears that the instant invention functions through a mechanism that was undescribed prior to the instant application. Accordingly, the invention functions by a mechanism that must be considered unexpected and thus, unpredictable.

Applicant argues that the unexecuted declaration filed under 37 CFR 1.132 "confirms and extends the practical use of alternatively activated DC for modulation of the alloimmune response and shows that these can induce a prolonged skin graft survival even in a complete MHC incompatible donor-recipient combination."

Applicant is advised that an unexecuted 1.132 declaration cannot be considered and thus, provides no additional support for the invention of the instant claims. However, upon review, it appears that no antigen-loaded DCs were used in the disclosed experiments, thus, it is unclear how said declaration could support the invention of the instant claims. Note that the rejection is based on two key factors. First, the specification fails to disclose precisely how the antigens that induce unwanted T cell responses are established. Second, given that the claims are drawn to a method for preparing a pharmaceutical composition, the specification fails to adequately disclose that the DCs prepared with these unknown antigens would function as a pharmaceutical composition in vivo.

6. The following are new grounds for rejection.

7. Claims 1, 5-6, 9-15, 28-29, and 37-39 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, first paragraph, as containing subject matter which was not described in the specification in such a way as to reasonably convey to one skilled in the relevant art that the inventor, at the time the application was filed, had possession of the claimed invention.

Under Vas-Cath, Inc. v. Mahurkar, 19 USPQ2d 1111, 1117 (Fed. Cir. 1991), to satisfy the written description requirement, an applicant must convey with reasonable clarity to those skilled in the art that, as of the filing date sought, he or she was in possession of the invention, and that the invention, in that context, is whatever is now claimed. Further note that under Lockwood v. American Airlines Inc. 107 F.3d 1565, 41 USPQ2d 1961 (Fed. Cir. 1997), "Entitlement to a filing date does not extend to subject matter which is not disclosed, but would be obvious over what is expressly disclosed". It would then seem that an obvious corollary would be that adequate written description does not extend to subject matter which is not disclosed, but would be obvious over what is expressly disclosed.

There is insufficient written description to show that Applicant was in possession of "means for reducing IL-12p40 production by said dendritic cell" or "means for causing said dendritic cell to secrete IL-10 in vitro", other than dexamethasone. As said "means" comprise an unknown genus of indeterminant size, one of skill in the art must conclude that the specification fails to disclose an adequate written description or a representative number of species to describe the claimed genus. Likewise, the specification discloses no specific "antigen[s] against which said T-cell response is to be reduced". Again, given the indeterminant size of the claimed "antigen" genus, and in this instance no species of the genus are disclosed, one of skill in the art must conclude that the specification fails to disclose an adequate written description or a representative number of species to describe the claimed genus. See Eli Lilly, 119 F.3d 1559, 43 USPQ2d 1398.

8. No claim is allowed.
